

London Swimming Pools

Wimbledon pool and spa complex

This elegant indoor complex project in the London suburb associated with a certain tennis tournament was accomplished with the help of major ground engineering works to allow the pool to be constructed below the property, which required deep piling to support the main house during the build.

The result is a striking 14.4m x 3.4m pool finished with a specialist high glazed and mottled pale blue glass mosaic manufactured in Spain. The deck area is covered in slate effect ceramics.

The minimalist design was achieved with clear, concise lines and columns against background greys, and a polished plaster wave effect, which creates a peaceful ambience.

The full-length glazing of the pool hall allows for spectacular views over South-West London from the inside. Further use of natural light is achieved with the circular atrium constructed in the ceiling halfway down the length of the hall. Specialist LEDs manufactured by Wibre in Germany provide the underwater lighting.

The pool is complemented by a Sundance sunken spa with eight hydro massage jets and a Tylö Classic sauna to provide the complete wellness-at-home experience.
